

HUNTINGTOWN HISTORIC BUILDINGS

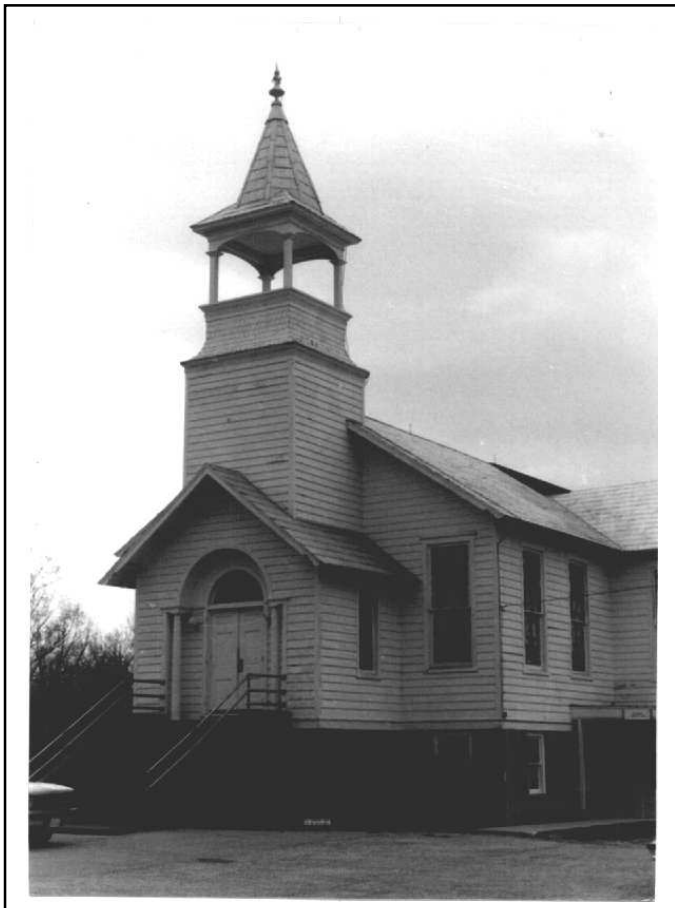

THE BUILDINGS & LANDMARKS TELL THE HISTORY
OF A COMMUNITY

The Leitch House, built in 1932, exemplifies the Dutch Colonial Revival style. The outbuildings illustrate agricultural aspects of Huntingtown in the 1920s

CT-753, on Huntingtown Road, began as a smaller house about 1840, and took on its Victorian appearance around 1900. It belonged to Dr. Leitch

The Huntingtown United Methodist Church, pictured here in 1979, was built in 1929 for the congregation which was formed in 1844. CT-415 on the Maryland Inventory

CT-404 on Huntingtown Road may have been built in the 19th century, though it has been substantially altered.

American Legion Hall, Calvert Post #85
School of Dance, CT-757

The hall was built in 1914 by the Huntingtown Improvement Company as a place for citizens "to better themselves through education and art appreciation." The building is a rare example of a community hall.

Would you like to know if your property is on the Maryland Inventory and what information may be on file?

Would you like help researching your property, or are you willing to share information that you have?

Would you like to explore having your property designated as a Calvert County Historic District?

Please call the Historic District Commission staff in the Department of Planning & Zoning 410-535-1600 x2504